Dear Mifan Mama Mothers

How are you?

I am one of the children receiving your help. I am now studying at Fuyang School 3. I am attending senior high year 3, and like many third year students, striving for our dreams and better future. It is now less than a year for college entrance examination. This special period of time is extremely important for every senior 3 student. It seems to be going to the end of 12 years rainy and windy study road.

The study of Senior 3 can be considered both as a final summary but moreover it is a deeper understanding for any level integrated together. I think the purpose is to strengthen one's will and attitude through the tough training during this year. Looking back, the passing of more than a decade of study journey, I will always consider study as my own business. I believe when a person really understands life, he will become stronger and stronger. Maybe different people study for different purposes, and their life values will turn out to be different. For me, studying hard is even a responsibility. For a very long time, I take this sentence as my belief. For the older generations' wishes and to realize my own dreams and change the destiny, I constantly inspire myself through it.

It is not only for Grandpa Wang but also for all the people who care, help and love me, I definitely know that they want me to be someone in the future so I am striving for this reason. Everyone has his own dream. My dream is very realistic. Through my hard work it is to change my destiny and to help people who are in need. Maybe because of living in the orphanage for a long time, meeting many people and experiences have touched my heart and spinning in my mind, that I became much mature than other peers. I remember when I was in junior 1, my teacher asked me "what is your dream?". I answered undoubtedly that I wanted to be a philanthropist and I keep these words in my heart all the time. If not for this actual experience which I have gone through during my childhood, the heartfelt feelings about the needs of children who are either disabled or suffering in poverty, it is hard to imagine how come a young boy at such an early age wants to be a philanthropist.

I think destiny is fair to everyone. It is like the eternal balance in the study of physics and chemistry. Whatever has been taken away from you, the other side of Life gives you back in equivalence to pay you back, so I never complain that that life is unfair, If not for all the difficulties and struggles I have gone through, I can't be so independent and self-esteeming person. I lost my parents but I don't think I am lacking love. So many people around me help and support me. I am sure my future is bright.

For college study, what a hard drive place for everyone like me. It is said that if you haven't experienced college life, your life journey is not complete. I think maybe it is like this. University is not the only holy place for academic study or academic search but also a new window leading to society. Going to university is not the destination but a better way to adjusting to society life. It gives me a deep insightful impression when I visited Shanghai with Grandpa Wang and I am dreaming of going there (Fudan University) for my college life.

Finally, I like to send my gratitude and blessings for Mifan Mama and all the sponsors from all walks of life to help the orphanage and myself.

Thank you for your kindness to us. We won't disappoint you.

Wish you all good health and enjoyable working experience.
